RED CROSS TOUCHES EVERYBODY

Red Cross touches mankind in every rank. Lee Lambert, banker, secure, said, "I've gladly given to Red Cross, for others. However, last summer, our son was swimming, cramps seized him, he went down. A youth, with Red Cross training applied artificial respiration, saved him. Hero's my Thank you."

For two years Dick Mendenhall, tough Commies in Korea and waited for the day he would be greeted by his wife and baby son; he came home, saw the Golden Gate, dock, swarms of happy people. His wife wasn't one of them. He was frantic, appealed to Red Cross; she had gone to Seattle. A plane reunited them.

A violent wind toppled a tree, seriously injuring a housewife walking to market; a blood transfusion was needed, quick. Who supplied that blood? Red Cross.

There'll be loyal Red Cross workers come to your door. Have your money ready, then proudly display your Red Cross emblem.
